Internet Use Agreement for Children under 16

- The public library, unlike schools, does not serve in loco parentis. Librarians cannot act in the place of legal guardians in providing supervision of children as they explore online. The library's internet is not filtered in order to provide open access to all library patrons.
- The responsibility for what minors read or view online rests solely with legal guardians.
- Blocking access only applies to in house computers (not wireless or mobile devices) and the specific library card account the legal guardian identifies. The block expires when the child turns sixteen (16) years old.
